Mortgage Apps Fall as Rates Edge Higher

Average contract mortgage interest rates inched up again during the week ended April 29 and mortgage application activity slowed in response. The Mortgage Bankers Association said its Market Composite Index, a measure of mortgage application volume, dropped by 3.4 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis and 3 percent non-adjusted from the week ended April 22.

Not surprisingly most of the slowdown came from refinancing. MBA's refinance index fell by 6 percent from the previous week. The refinance share of overall applications dropped back to 52.9 percent from 54.4 percent.

Purchase mortgage applications did slightly better, eking out a 1.0 percent gain on an unadjusted basis although volume was down 0.1 percent when seasonally adjusted. The unadjusted index was 13 percent higher than during the same week in 2015.

FHA-backed mortgages got a 13.5 percent share of applications, up from 12.3 percent the previous week. The VA share dipped from 12.2 percent to 11.5 percent while the USDA share was down 0.1 percentage point to 0.7 percent.

While increases were modest, all fixed rate mortgages (FRM) saw an increase in both average contract rates and effective rates during the week. The average contract interest rate for 30-year FRM with conforming loan balances ($417,000 or less) increased to 3.87 percent from 3.85 percent, with points increasing to 0.36 from 0.35

The rate for 30-year FRM with jumbo loan balances (greater than $417,000) increased to 3.79 percent from 3.78 percent. Points edged up to 0.31 from 0.30.

Thirty-year FRM with FHA backing rose 3 basis points on average to 3.69 percent. Points jumped from 0.26 to 0.33.

The average interest rate for 15-year FRM increased to 3.13 percent from 3.09 percent while points dipped to 0.36 from 0.37.

Adjustable rate mortgages (ARM) were the only products that saw rates decline. The average contract interest rate for 5/1 ARMs fell by 11 basis points to 2.91 percent. Although points increased to 0.30 from 0.14 the effective rate was still below that of the previous week. The share of applications for ARMS rose from 5.2 percent to 5.3 percent.
