Purchase Apps Surge, Driven by Jumbos

Purchase mortgage application activity picked up significantly during the week ended November 18. The Mortgage Bankers Association said its Market Composite Index, a measure of application volume, increased 5.5 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis from the week ended November 11 and was up 3.0 percent on an unadjusted basis.

The Refinance Index lost 3 percent from its level the previous week dropping to its lowest level since January. The share of applications that were for refinancing also fell, from 61.9 percent a week earlier to 58.2 percent, the lowest level since the week ended June 24, the week of the Brexit vote.

The decline in refinancing was more than offset by purchase activity. The Purchase Index jumped 19 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis and 13 percent unadjusted. The unadjusted index was 11 percent higher than during the same week in 2015.

Michael Fratantoni, Chief Economist and Senior Vice President of Research & Technology at the Mortgage Bankers Association said. "Mortgage rates have continued to move higher in the post-election period, as investors worldwide are looking for increases in growth and inflation, with the 30-year mortgage rate reaching its highest weekly average since the beginning of 2016. Refinance volume dropped further over the week, particularly for refinances of FHA and VA loans. Purchase volume increased sharply for the week compared to both last week, which included the Veteran's Day holiday, and last year, with purchase volume up more than 11 percent on a year over year basis. The increase in purchase activity was driven by borrowers seeking larger loans and that drove up the average loan amount on home purchase applications to $310 thousand, the highest in the survey, which dates back to 1990."

The FHA share of total applications decreased to 11.7 percent from 12.2 percent the previous week. The VA share decreased to 12.5 percent from 12.6 percent and the USDA share rose to 0.8 percent from 0.6 percent. The adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM) share of activity increased to 5.2 percent of total applications from 4.7 percent.
