

Rich E. Blanchard

Managing Director, RICH Home Loans LLC
 NMLS: 492461
 1550 Wewatta St., 2nd Floor Denver, CO 80202

Office: 720.619.9900
 Mobile: 303.328.7047
 Fax: 214.975.2874
richblanchard@richhomeloans.com
View My Website

The Day Ahead: Fed/Japan Announcements, Supply, and Data to Force Bonds From Sideways Range

Bond markets begin another week in the same sideways range, still waiting for the same events to suggest the next concerted effort to take yields higher or lower. The difference from last week is that those events are actually on this week's calendar.

The leaders of this group of events are the Fed's policy announcement on Wednesday and the Bank of Japan's policy announcement on Friday (or late Thursday night). Rounding out the potential market movers will be a slew of moderately important economic data as well as new debt supply in the form of Treasury and corporate bond auctions.

Let's talk about the Fed first. This is one of those Fed meetings where there is almost universal agreement that there will be no rate hike or any other change in policy stance. That's a fairly common outlook and it has the tendency to make talking heads downplay the potential market movement. I would definitely agree that the biggest potential market reactions to the Fed will be on the occasions where markets are more uncertain as to what the Fed will do, but these "sure thing" meetings can still have an impact.

This meeting is of particular interest in that regard, as we may see a shift in the verbiage of the announcement that paves the way for a hike at the next meeting. It would almost be a surprise if we did NOT see something like that in light of the fairly tame Brexit fallout and the last jobs report coming in strong (2 factors that dissuaded a hike at the last meeting). To quantify how different this meeting is from the next one in terms of the market's uncertainty, Fed Funds Futures trading sees a 2 percent chance of a hike this week versus a 26 percent chance for the next meeting.

The outright number of economic reports may be fairly light this week, but several of them are important for the broader narrative. Friday provides the first read on Q2 GDP and Wednesday morning's Durable Goods data is expected to show another decline. Beyond that there is "supply" (i.e. new bonds hitting the market), both in the form of 2/5/7 year Treasury auctions and a yet-to-be determined corporate bond supply calendar.

Some combination of all of the above should be more than enough to break the recent, incredibly narrow range seen between the yellow lines below. Momentum indicators suggest there's room to run in either direction.

MBS & Treasury Market Data

	Price / Yield	Change
MBS UMBS 6.0	100.61	+0.22
MBS GNMA 6.0	100.74	+0.21
10 YR Treasury	4.2974	+0.0156
30 YR Treasury	4.4980	+0.0123

Pricing as of: 7/8 1:57AM EST

Average Mortgage Rates

	Rate	Change	Points
Mortgage News Daily
30 Yr. Fixed	7.03%	-0.05	0.00
15 Yr. Fixed	6.44%	-0.01	0.00
30 Yr. FHA	6.50%	-0.05	0.00
30 Yr. Jumbo	7.24%	-0.01	0.00
5/1 ARM	7.05%	-0.02	0.00
Freddie Mac
30 Yr. Fixed	6.95%	+0.09	0.00
15 Yr. Fixed	6.25%	+0.09	0.00
Mortgage Bankers Assoc.
30 Yr. Fixed	7.03%	+0.09	0.62
15 Yr. Fixed	6.56%	+0.09	0.54
30 Yr. FHA	6.90%	+0.11	0.95
30 Yr. Jumbo	7.11%	-0.01	0.50
5/1 ARM	6.38%	+0.11	0.54

Rates as of: 7/5

Subscribe to my newsletter online at: <http://housingnewsletters.com/richhomeloans>

Expert Advice | Exceptional Service | Flawless Execution

With 27+ years of expertise in mortgage banking you can be confident in my knowledge and abilities to deliver a seamless loan transaction while providing personalized service.

Rich E. Blanchard

