Mortgage Rates Extend Steady Streak

Mortgage rates haven't really moved for 9 straight business days. Some lenders have seen microscopic improvements during that time, but the average lender is still quoting the same rates and fees seen on August 13th.

The underlying bond market is part of the problem. Bonds--which dictate rates--haven't been too interested in responding to conventional inputs. The bonds that underlie mortgages are especially guilty (compared to, say, US Treasuries which are more willing to respond to news and events at the moment).

That doesn't mean nothing can happen that would have an effect, simply that the stuff that has happened hasn't been enough to move the needle. When market participants return in full force in mid-September, this seasonal pattern typically changes. It could even happen sooner, but until then, it's keeping the risk/reward spectrum very muted for those considering locking vs floating.
