UPDATE: Data, Headlines, and Momentum Adding Up to More Gains

- Markit PMI Services
  - 53.2 vs 52.9 forecast
- Markit PMI Manufacturing
  - 51.7 vs 52.5 forecast

Bonds were already trending toward better levels on the day before the PMI data came out. Post-data, there was a slight bump in an even friendlier direction, but volume had begun to pick up several minutes before that. Then shortly after 10am ET, another Wuhan Virus case was confirmed in the US (Chicago), leading to the typical "risk-off" move in both stocks and bonds.

All told, 10yr yields are periodically trading under 1.70% at the moment and Fannie 3.0 MBS are at their best levels of the day, up 3 ticks (0.09) at 101-31 (101.97).
