Housing Starts/Permits Lagging 2015 Numbers

The Residential Construction Report from the U.S. Census Bureau and the Department of Housing and Urban Development reported that, while both permits and housing starts rose in June compared to the previous month, both were down from rates a year earlier. For permitting it was the second annual decline in as many months. In each case the year-over-year loss was in the multi-family sector.

Permits were issued for construction of 1,153,000 units, up 1.5 percent from May's rate of 1,136,000 (revised down from 1,138,000 units originally reported) but were 13.6 percent lower than in June 2015. The May report put the year-over-year change in permits at -10.1 percent.

The monthly change in permits was in line with analysts' predictions. Those polled by Econoday had predicted a 1.5 percent increase and a consensus of 1,150,000 units.

Permits for single family construction were at a rate of 738,000, an increase of 1.0 percent from the previous month and 5.1 percent from a year earlier. Authorizations for construction of units in buildings with five or more units were at a rate of 384,000, an increase of 1.9 percent for the month but 35.8 percent lower than the pace the previous June.

On a non-adjusted basis there were 114,000 permits issued in June compared to 107,700 in May. Single family permits rose by 4,200 to 74,400.

Construction was started on new housing units at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,189,000 units. This is an improvement of 4.8 percent over May's housing start rate of 1,135,000 units (revised down from 1,164,000 units) but was 2.0 percent lower than a year earlier.

The monthly figure was in the midrange of analysts' projections for the month. They had been looking in a range of 1,130,000 to 1,200,000 with a consensus of 1,170,000 or an 0.5 percent gain.

Single-family housing starts rose 4.4 percent from the previous month to 778,000 and were 13.4 percent above the rate in June 2015. Multi-family starts were down 23.6 percent from last June but were still 1.6 percent higher than in May at an annual rate of 392,000 units.

On an unadjusted basis there were 111,600 units started nationally in June compared to 106,200 in May. Single family construction accounted for

Update: Buyer Broker Agreement

After requests from real estate companies, a nonprofit consumer watchdog group the Consumer Federation of America has developed a list of factors to consider when creating a buyer contract in preparation for upcoming practice changes in the industry.

CFA released its "Proposed Criteria for Evaluating Home Buyer Contract Forms" on Tuesday. The 15 criteria focus on the contracts' form — whether the documents are readable and understandable — and content — whether they are fair to homebuyers.

- -the document's expiration date (CFA recommends buyers asks for a three-month contract and never sign one longer than six months)
- -the right to terminate the contract
- -the disclosure that compensation is negotiable
- -the broker's compensation clearly stated and that the buyer broker can't receive additional compensation for facilitating a sale
- -that any additional fees, such as for showing a home, will be deducted from the broker's commission if there is a successful sale
- -that the commission is due only if there is a successful closing
- -that buyers have an obligation for no longer than 60 days, CFA recommends to pay a broker who earlier showed them a home they purchased after the contract ended
- -seller concessions paid directly to buyers
- -dual agency not pre-approved by the contract
- -an explanation of how a broker treats different buyer clients interested in the same property
- -that buyers should not be required to first go through mediation or arbitration if they have a complaint
